OLD CLOTHES

By Dr. Frank Crane.

With all the variations of which we are capable let us encourage the movement to "Wear Your Old Clothes."

It is even better than the Overall campaign. For there is a strong desire to that; if the fashionable world takes to blue jeans and ginghams the price will go up and a hardship on the "workers" who have to wear these goods.

There has already appeared in Paris, the Moon of celebrities, a young man styled "The Overall King" who sold out his overall factory at an immense profit and is now taking a post-graduate course with Professors Nini, Chichi, Lolo and Fifi, back of the Sorbonne.

But if we wear our old clothes, and induce the style-setters to do so, and make it "the thing," so that all classes, rich and poor, high and low, city and country, will make it a point of pride to wear, not spend, and if we especially can make it seem vulgar, ill-bred and disgraceful to flaunt diamonds, wear $1,000 coats, spend $20 a day for toilet articles at a hotel, own a $25,000 automobile like a movie king, and otherwise flaunt our excess profits in the face of simpler and better folks, then the high price of things will come down, by the only feasible process of reduction, except general bankruptcy.

It is the public, not the profiteers, that makes the high prices, by their childlike, libelous love of display and extravagance. Without that, there is no play upon, no profiteer in luxury would change his high prices.

The present craze of vulgarity in money spending is simply a reaction from the spell of thrift and saving we had during the war; just as the riot of selfishness, narrowness, jealousy and Bourbonism in the South was a reaction from the high idealism and noble impulses that helped humanity into the war wept. It is not in human nature to stay good. After a spell of virtue we are bound to slump.

The only thing we can do is to resist the existing wave of selfishness as strenuously as we tried to help along in the days when we all saved and followed.

Especially let the wealthy and the well-to-do realize their responsibility, that they by their actions can redeem or corrupt the world that they live in.

Old clothes, by all means! Anything to bring simplicity into vogue. For without simplicity, and love of there can be no nobility.

AT $2 A DOZEN THESE EGGS WERE REGARDED CHEAP

New York, May 18.—The people of Detroit are undaunted by the price of eggs, even though the price has risen $2 a dozen, according to D. A. Sawyer, who is at the Waldorf-Astoria, but the willingness of people to pay that price was made clear after a recent auction.

"For some time," said Mr. Sawyer, "ages at $2 a dozen have been snapped up by the moment they were put on the market. Of course, they were supposed to be very special eggs, and at first some wonderment was expressed at their value, but we had all made clear on Wednesday as the latest style in liquor smuggling when a man carrying a case of Scotch whisky from a boat just arriving from the Canadian side was bumped by a taxi."

"Following the collision there was the unmistakable odor of good old Scotch and an astonished crowd gathered. The man did not wait to explain nor to make the usual charge against the chauffeur, but 'beat' it unceremoniously, leaving the eggs, basket and all, when the traffic police man approached."

"On examination the eggs proved to be filled with liquor and carefully sealed. The customs inspector afterward testified that he had noticed a great increase in egg imports, and that a great many men and women had seemed to be doing this branch of their marketing in Canada; but they certainly were surprised at the new method of liquor traffic."

SAVIN A SOPORIFIC

A witty actor was telling a story to a number of fellow players at a club one night, and there was also present a dyspeptic newspaper man who suffered from insomnia.

"The company, with the exception of the newspaper man roared at the story."

"What's the matter?" asked someone.

"Nothing."

"Why didn't you laugh at that good story?"

"Well, this is my way: I am going to save it until I get home. I find that I can always sleep better when I go to bed laughing."

THERE'S A LIMIT TO THE PUBLIC PATIENCE

Two remarkable addresses were made to labor bodies in Massachusetts the last few days. One of them was by Frederick W. Mansfield, who not only has been the counsel of the Massachusetts division of the American Federation of Labor, but the Democratic candidate for governor three times.

He spoke to a newly organized labor body. "Strike," he said, "are relics of the dark ages. They cause untold suffering to workers and great losses to employers. The remedy for unrest is not to strike, but for employer and employee to get together and work. While I do not say strikes ought to be abolished by law, I do say the unions ought to make such a law unnecessary by voluntarily agreeing to arbitrate all disputes where the public would be seriously inconvenienced if service were stopped."

"In former days the employer was able to dictate whatever terms of employment suited him, and the worker was forced to accept them. Now, when the worker finds himself in a position of power because of combination, the worker in turn is endeavoring to get all he can from the employer. Labor unions, to be successful, must be honest, honorable in intention, their objects lawful and their methods, and above all they must retain public respect and confidence. One can't deny that unions in the last few years have lost caste."

The other address was made by Prof. William D. Ripley, of Harvard. He was speaking to the delegates attending the Amalgamated Hat and Workers' convention, held in Boston. They had pledged themselves to demand a forty-hour week at the present rate of pay.

After suggesting to them that they were creating conditions which might result in the disavowance of labor, he asked his hearers if they appreciated that today one-half of the people in America were schooling themselves to economic life in the purchase of clothing and, in furtherance of this plan, were wearing old clothes.

"Look at mine," he exclaimed. Thereupon he opened his coat so that every one could see that the lining was tattered.

"Then look at the hearers that they might cut their hours and get more pay for the shorter turn as for the former schedule, and the manufacturer might be able to pay the price of garments, not only to cover the increased cost of production but to add to his profit; but there was one thing as sure as anything could be that the public would be out of work, and the manufacturer would be out of profits."

There was a limit to public ability to pay and a limit, too, to the public's patience.

Peet Has Already Shown Up in Hampton this Year.

The boll weevil has already put its appearance in Hampton county in the year 1920, although cotton is just now being chopped out. One prominent farmer of Brunswick was in Hampton Monday and exhibited a full grown weevil that he had been found on a cotton plant hardly two inches high. This farmer, while only planting fourteen acres of cotton to seven or eight, and he expected to find this weevil had about destroyed him. To show up the fourteen acres of cotton so planted and plant some other cotton, the cold weather had put the cotton to some extent anyhow and the outlook for a cotton crop in Hampton county this year is exceedingly gloomy.

"DON'TS" FOR THE SALES FORCE

Don't meet the caller with a frown. Smile.

Don't amble up to a customer and approach with brisk steps and a business like air.

Don't rely on price as a sales argument. Talk quality.

Don't make comparisons with other goods of lesser quality or value, but show your own value.

Don't show impatience while the customer is telling you a long tale, but appear interested, even if you don't.

Don't lose your "pen" on rainy days, but put forth renewed effort.

Don't feel your work is ended as the close of the day. You will think and plan, even if your store doors are closed.

Don't attempt to burn the candle at both ends. The good salesperson is also a mass pleasure seeker.

Don't think you are a past master and the customer a "dummy."

Don't let your salesmen be influenced by others; also, be receptive to suggestions.

Money In Roads

THE farmers and business men of Chester County have realized the benefits to be derived from good roads and there are very few people in Chester County today who are not advocates of good roads, and they are willing to pay for them since they realize what a good investment they mean.

OUR roads must be maintained and it is the duty of every citizen to advocate proper maintenance. Are you doing your duty?

SLOW IN TAKING IMPROVED MACHINERY.

Why has the Southern farmer not more readily adopted the use of large, modern machinery as a means of reducing labor costs and increasing production?

There are many reasons why the Southern farmer has been slow to take up the use of modern, labor-saving implements, but the chief reason is that he has not had to do it, because he has been able to obtain an abundance of labor at a cheap price. He has had perhaps twice as much labor as was necessary to produce the crop, and he has not had to use a system or a system of farming which would distribute the labor on the farm as near equally as practicable throughout the year, and he has used more power and larger labor-saving implements and machinery.

A large landowner, not living on a farm, was recently asked why he did not use such cultivators for cultivating his cotton as would enable a hand to do twice as much work as with the old one-horse type. His first reply was the old stereotyped one that "Negroes cannot use these larger and complicated implements." When he was proved to him by citing numerous examples that Negroes could be shown how to use these implements, when the white man in charge, under his own actual supervision, then how to operate the new implements, he gave the real reason why more effort has not been made to teach the Negro how to operate tools which he can cultivate 40 acres instead of 20. I can get a family for every 20 acres, so I get mine just the same."

This is also the most potent reason why labor is becoming more scarce on Southern farms. The laborer, whether white or black, will hither, thither and methods, cultivating a small acreage, cannot produce enough to produce enough to induce them to remain on the farms especially under present housing and living conditions and the lack of school facilities. If we are to retain sufficient labor on the farms to cultivate our lands, even with the best labor-saving implements, the farm laborer must not only get more, but he must produce more. Unless he produces more he cannot get enough to purchase those living conditions necessary to keep him on the farm.

Of course, small, irregular fields, open drainage and killed districts, fields, brush, stumps, etc., and the life-long habit of using small, one-horse implements have all played their part in keeping the Southern farmer from taking up the use of the labor-saving implements, but the real cause is that he hasn't had to. He is capable of the large supply of labor and its ability to live on small per acre production and his willingness to submit to new methods of living.

And now since the war has raised wages and standard of living and brought to the knowledge of all the higher earnings of the city laborer, that which has been the cause of the farmer's indifference to the use of implements is reaching on him, and unless he adopts methods by which the farm laborer can produce more—can earn more for himself—he is going to continue to lose labor at a alarming rate, until he will no longer be able to "get his" by securing a hand for every 20 acres. When the laborer is scarce, the farmer will be forced to use more power equipment, cultivate to acres instead of 20 and earn more for himself, the farmer will get as much as when he had double labor, but unless the farm laborer is enabled to earn more—unless we make better farmers and more productive laborers of them—they are not going to stay on the farm.

THINGS WE NEED

There are a great many things we need in these troubled times—and we need them exceedingly.

We need leaders who will talk less and effect more. We need followers who will think, not merely cheer.

We need workers willing to work, and we need workers fit to work. Wherever we need fit food, fit homes and fit clothing for workers.

Mouths open, we marvel at the unrest and clamor. We wonder how we can ourselves whence the discontent springs.

The bustling warehouses of the proficients, the stupor of the multitude of the producers, farmer at least in part the answer.

Alas they suggest that one of our greatest needs is a keener human sympathy.

We waste of our charity. We plume ourselves of our generosity. Yet all the while we permit men and women and little children to live and die by the thousands in tenement and hills.

Absorbed in our private affairs, we give the unfortunate worker a passing thought unless they burst forth in "socialistic agitation." For our own good, as well as theirs we need to bear ourselves in their interest.

We need to realize that they can hope and despair, love and hate; rejoice and grieve as we do. We need to recognize, in fine, that we are no more truly human beings than they are, despite their rage and grime and squalor.

And we need further to recognize that it is not only human to ignore their wretchedness, but that by so doing we are actually helping to create the conditions of their wretchedness.

We need, accordingly, to ask some pretty sharp questions about our industrial efficiency, our governmental efficiency, even about our much vaunted educational system.

Are we really educating all the children of all the people? Is our education making for social solidarity and personal success and happiness among the masses. Or is it benefiting the comparatively few?

Educational reform is, in fact, one of our present day needs. And reform must extend to home education no less than school education.

Too many children are being reared to be wasters, not makers; spenders, not savers.

Too many are unwittingly trained to shallow, callous, selfish modes of thought.

In too many children, of the well to do of the poor, the seeds of class antagonisms and class hatreds are being sown.

These are a few—very few—of the things we need. Unless we honestly endeavor to obtain them greater and always greater evils will befall us, to the increasing misery of all and the final collapse of what we call our civilization.

SPLIT IN CHURCH IS PREDICTED BY DR. GRANT

New York, May 17.—"Preaching yesterday on 'The Episcopal Church Split in Two,'" the Rev. Dr. Percy Stiefney Grant, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Third Street, declared that in America to day the Bishops of the church were "reaching for more authority," and that he feared "through the exertion of Episcopal authority, which is narrow and hampers the growth of the church, the variety of its expression and the energy of its active ministry, the more vigorous of our clergy will organize their parishes into community churches, or will leave the Protestant Episcopal church and establish such churches."

Dr. Grant anticipated his big audience by declaring that the "scripture of Confirmation" as it is now understood is an outworn custom of little significance."

He said there were "few thinking adults who join the Episcopal church today; and few of them upon any intellectual persuasion."

He affirmed that he could not recall any advance legislation which the Episcopal church had enacted in his time. He said the church had made no progress at the annual meeting and prohibition of the abolition of confirmation. He declared that "the liturgies and self-satisfaction of the Episcopal church is the first part of the more humanitarian clergy out of the ministry."

Two accused slaying TO GO ON TRIAL TODAY

Winston-Salem, May 19.—A true bill has been returned by Yadkin county grand jury against Robb Baily and Spencer McNeill, charging the murder of Sheriff J. E. Zachary, in Yadkin county a few months ago while the latter was making a raid on an alleged illicit distillery.

Counsel for defendants asked that case be removed to another county for trial. This motion was refused to receive jury from Storry county.

A renge of 100 men was ordered secured from Storry and the trial is scheduled to start tomorrow morning.

SPEAKER WOULDN'T LISTEN

Congressman Byrnes Was Barring the Republican.

Speaker Gillett declined, last Friday, to permit Representative Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, to proceed with a speech, criticizing the house investigating committee, after he had delivered a 20 minute attack on the Republican party.

Just as he was nearing the end of his allotted time, Mr. Byrnes asked for five minutes more.

"The chair declines to reorganize the gentleman," the speaker said, and there was a hubbub on the Democratic side of the chamber.

Former Speaker Clark, instantly asked that Mr. Byrnes by unanimous consent be given ten minutes, but the speaker said he would not recognize him.

"It's a fine house," the former speaker growled, as he sat down, and further proceedings were interrupted by a demand by Democrats for a quorum.

Mr. Byrnes challenged the investigating committee to summon General Pershing and "learn from him that which you ought to know—that we won the war."

"You had a year in which to investigate," Mr. Byrnes declared. "You have discovered no fraud, and you owe it to the taxpayers of America to put an end to your extravagant expenditures before you recess or adjourn."

Mr. Byrnes was speaking on his resolution, introduced today for appointment of a committee to investigate expenditures of the house in investigating committee of which Representative Graham, Republican, Illinois, is chairman.

Mr. Byrnes declared that more than 50 investigations have been authorized by the house covering every activity of the Democratic administration and that these had been of interference with every executive department of the government.

"I have seen the whole series of inquiries," he charged the Republicans with making concerted attempts to attack the president and said expenses were being piled up "world without end." He wanted an accounting as to amounts spent declaring that "the true purpose of the Republican party is to overthrow the government."

"You have longed for a thief, without finding him," he said.

TABACCO NOT GOING TO JOIN J. B. GILBERTSON IS DECREE OF HIS FRIENDS

Washington, May 19.—Members of the Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States in convention here were assured today by President Charles J. Eisenlohr, Philadelphia, that tobacco and liquor would not be buried if the same grew. He said tobacco was not the slightest cause for fear that use of tobacco would be prohibited.

"Tobacco does not excite or intoxicate," he said, "and neither does it, Eisenlohr said. "It promotes sober deliberation and moral contentment. It does not lure men from the fireside to the street and the public house."

The speaker protested against further increases of taxation of tobacco products, which he held, would not bring him further revenues because consumption would decrease as a result of necessary higher prices. The tobacco industry is paying the federal government $325,000,000 a year as revenue, according to Mr. Eisenlohr, who added that tobacco prices in 1914 on the outbreak of the war had increased on an average of 75 per cent.

FOCH TELLS FRANCE TO PREPARE FOR MILITARY CONTEST WITH GERMANY

Paris, May 19.—Warning that France must, in the midst of peace, make preparations for future wars, was uttered by Marshal Foch, who presided at the annual meeting of the polytechnic school for army engineers today. Discussing lessons of the great war, he said, the present economic crisis is the first part of a new program, but preparation for war is the second part.

"Who of us," he asked, "dares believe Germany is renouncing war or the memory of her ruin—Germany, took arms in 1846, 1866, 1870 and which, inspired by her ambition, 1914 on the plea of historic necessity?"

Germany's neighbors whether they wish to or not, will be forced to keep up a high state of military readiness, because, quite apart from the generous intentions of civilized humanity, there are historic realities and racial spirit, just as there are geographical realities.

"How can we help mistrusting a nation," he continued, "which, reduced to impotence by the great Napoleonic war, was able, by its martial ardor, to re-establish itself and bring about complete overthrow of the colonial Napoleon empire, and by superior military and methodic development, extended its authority from the eastern Prussian marches to beyond the

NEW YORK BARBERS SHOPS MAY CLOSE BY STRIKE

New York, May 19.—Boss Barbers today threatened that all the shops in New York City if the strike of journeymen barbers extended to include shops in hotels office buildings and the railway terminals.

The strike, however, for the master barbers, said it would be more economical to close the shops than to try to operate them, because the union had threatened if the strike spread to shops of this class.

Meanwhile the strike has resulted in large wholesale sales of razors and self hair cutting instruments.

Rhine? Making war is its national industry, and night is right."

Marshal Foch paid tribute to Marshal Joffre, whose inspiration, he said, brought to France the victory at the Marne.

Washington, May 17.—The demand convention of the Southern Baptist church, described as the largest in the history of the church, came to an end today with the adoption of the report of the committee on temperance and social service and a recommendation that the constitution of the United States be amended as to prohibit the use of public funds for the support of certain institutions.

An attack on the national board of censors was stricken from the report before its adoption upon the suggestion of Dr. W. W. Landrum, of Russellville, Ky.

Dr. Landrum argued that the attack was libelous in character and might lead to the recovery of heavy damages from the convention. He agreed with the spirit which had prompted the statement.

Arrangements for the constitution to prohibit the use of money raised by the government through taxation or otherwise for defraying the expenses of sectarian institutions was proposed by Dr. J. B. Gambrell, president of the convention. Dr. Gambrell declared it his belief that every religious order should pay its own expenses.

Progress made in the establishment of the theological seminary for negroes was reported to the convention and the project endorsed by two negro Baptist preachers, Dr. W. B. Bailey, of Birmingham, and George O. Bullock of Washington.

PEANUT OIL MILL TO HELP FARMERS

The Carolina Peanut Oil Co. of Columbia, one of the new industries for the state, is making an effort to assist the farmers in cultivation of peanuts as a side crop, emphasizing the use of a picker to the farmers of Richland county to save the planter the necessity of purchasing a peanut picker. The picker will be sent to each farmer planting as much as ten acres in peanuts. The new peanut oil mill will be ready for operation early this summer. The plant is now being erected on the company's site near the state fair grounds.

Farmers of Richland are being sent a letter on the subject of peanuts, which says:

"Our farmers in Richland county for the past centuries have been depending entirely on cotton as a money maker. So did the farmers in Mississippi, Alabama and other states of the cotton belt, but since the boll weevil has put in its appearance in these states the farmers have been planting peanuts. And the farmers where Billy Boll Weevil has been are in better condition than even before, due to the fact that they did not depend entirely on cotton.

"We do not put out propaganda against cotton. We are not trying to scare the farmers into planting peanuts, but we merely ask that they plant a few acres of the White Spanish peanuts in connection with their regular farm work.

"If you plant a few acres of White Spanish peanuts we would be very glad indeed for you to write us and let us know your acreage. We want this information in order that we may know exactly what to do this fall so that the farmers may be properly taken care of in regard to having their peanuts picked and marketed. It is far more profitable to plant peanuts than our farmers have any idea of. It has been proven in the west that they are a money making crop."

For the week beginning May 24th, a program is announced for the Dreamland Theatre that cannot be excelled in any country. Special care has been taken to provide bills of unusual appeal—an appeal to all kinds of theatre-goers.

For instance on Monday the offering will consist of two very attractive features and will include the newest part of "The Invisible Hand" as well as "High Kickers." Tuesday it will be "Hunting Shadows" in addition to the mirth-provoking "Flat Broke" a Pathé comedy, which is being presented with great success at the famous Capitol Theatre, New York City.

Wednesday the program will be headed by Madam Nazimova in the Metro production of "The Brat" an Oliver Morosco play which was originally presented on the speaking stage by Maud Fulton and holds the record for long runs in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, where it was presented for more than one hundred nights at the Cory Theatre.

Madam Nazimova runs the gamut of human emotions, and her character is that of a young girl who suffers from the machinations of a set of men and women known to the secret service as counterfeiter but who are a band of madonnas and blackmailers as well.

It is said that Nazimova takes every advantage offered in this particular as she does in the acting than she in "War Brides" or "The Green Dragon." She is supported by Charles Bryant and an excellent company. In addition to "The Brat" the Dreamland management will give "Fighting the Buck" and the new Prima production, "Old Faithful," which itself is an attraction of world wide interest.

Thursday another triple bill will be the offering and it will consist of "The Prairie Agent," a rib-tickling laugh maker, "The Great Nickle Robery" and the Fox News, showing pictures of the happenings all over the world. The bill for Friday will be announced later, while the program for Saturday is what is termed "The management to be the best given on the Dreamland scene, and it will include the famous "Fatty Arbut" and "Buster" Keaton in their funny comedy "The Garage." This comedy deals with the adventures of a garage and a grocery store but town constables and the fire department as well. It is said to be the funniest thing ever done by these sterling comedians.

The other features will be "The Adventures of Ruth" and "His Musical Snip" a mechanical scene that was built for laughing purposes only. Adv.

PRICE CUTTING WAVE CONTINUES

Reductions in Wearing Apparel Sweeping Country Banks. Merchants Extend Their Campaign for Deflation of Credits.

Chicago, May 19.—The wave of price cutting in wearing apparel continued today to sweep the country, merchants in many cities and towns announcing reductions in men's and women's clothing, shoes, hats and other articles. While some merchants said the reductions could not be maintained after present stocks were exhausted, others declared the price cuts were logical outcome of breaks in the western market, a backward season and a large stock on hand.

Owners of department stores in scores of cities and towns today announced price reductions in men's and women's apparel ranging from 20 to 50 per cent, while in some places shoes and other articles were cut.

While the movement, which assumed nation-wide proportions yesterday, continued to spread, banking interests in New York today extended their campaign of deflation of credits and high commodity prices, carrying out their pledge to secure a stop by the banks in the wholesale dry goods and general merchandise districts was said to be responsible for the wave of price cutting in the retail trade.

Banks were reported to have notified importers and dealers in luxury articles of apparel and manufactures that only moderate financial accommodations could be extended now.

The price cuts largely were confined to wearing apparel, but a spread of the movement to other lines was indicated by the action of Omaha dentists in reducing the price of dental work.

SILK GOODS TAKE TUMBLE.

Indianapolis, May 19.—Silk shirts and suits for men are the first articles of clothing to suffer radical price reductions in Indiana and several of the leading merchants of this city are offering men's furnishings today at from 20 to 30 per cent below former prices. One reliable establishment is offering silk shirts for men at $4.95, or almost half their former price. Ready-to-wear clothing for women and children also are offered at greatly reduced prices.

The leading store at Terre Haute is offering all men's and boy's garments and shoes at a reduction of 20 per cent.

DEMOCRATS OF GEORGIA

SPLIT IN TWO FACTIONS

Atlanta, May 19.—Georgia democrats split into two factions at the close of the state democratic convention here early today, the majority refusing to endorse President Wilson's administration and electing uncommitted delegates to San Francisco and the other endorsing the administration and electing delegates pledged to support Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer for president.

Action of the convention itself was made possible by a combination of the supporters of United States Senator Hoke Smith and Thomas E. Watson, who with Mr. Palmer ran in the presidential preference primary. After this body had adjourned the Palmer delegates held a meeting of their own and chose their delegates to San Francisco. The question of Georgia's stand this was put before national convention.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS

FOR WILSON AND LEAGUE

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 19.—Support of the league of nations covenant and the Versailles treaty without amendment, and "unfettering" of President Wilson, who has given all but his life itself in the service of his country and the world, were pledged in resolutions adopted by the Michigan state democratic convention here today.

Thirty uncommitted delegates to the San Francisco convention were selected, four by the convention and 26 by district caucuses.

DESTRUCTION VERSUS CONSTRUCTION

Here are two new items which appeared in the daily press the same day.

At the brilliant light is formed by bringing together two highly electrified points, so if you will juxtapose them they will shed a dazzling illumination throughout your mind, for they are highly charged with significance. To use Schiller's phrase, they are labors which mean there is a lot in them.

Item 1. Secretary of the Navy Daniels at an executive session of the senate naval affairs committee urged sufficient appropriations to launch naval buildings program on the Pacific coast so as to meet the warlike preparations which the Japanese are making.

Japan is said to be heavily fortifying the Caroline, Mariana and Marshall islands, recently got from Germany. On one of these she is preparing a veritable Gibraltar. She is increasing her fighting ships and airplanes.

To meet this menace we are asked to appropriate $10,000,000 as a starter toward improving the naval base at San Francisco, creating a submarine base at Los Angeles, fortifying Guam and Honolulu and eliminating our gun and sailing ship snickers generally.

Look, as Hamlet said, on this picture and then on.

Item 2. The day is reported a meeting of business men, scientists, publicists and the governors of four states (Strophes of California, Camp and Banerger of Utah) at Los Angeles, to consider one of the most gigantic engineering problems ever conceived.

The reclamation of the Colorado river basin.

"That means to change a large portion of the earth's surface from desert to garden."

The development (by dams) of 100,000,000 horse power to use for factories, railroads and the like, thus saving 100,000,000 tons of coal a year, and possibly as much fuel oil, thus being a step toward solving the problem of what we are to do when the oil gives out.

"It means giving labor and homeland, to thousands."

It means adding tons to the world's food supply.

It means carrying out the original will of the Creator who put man on the earth to till and tend it.

It means construction, cooperation, another advance toward the millennium.

Compare item one—gigantic, horrible waste—utterly useless if we had sense enough to join the nations of the world in a pact of general disarmament.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA

CLERKS ON STRIKE FOR MORE PAY, NEW CONTRACT

Atlanta, Ga., May 19.—Union clerks in the freight office of the Central of Georgia railroad company were not today in half a dozen cities and towns in Georgia, to enforce demands for a new contract and more pay.

Members of the union quit work in Atlanta, Macon, Savannah, Columbus, Americus and Fort Valley yesterday, those at Griffin already having gone out. Their leaders asserted officials of the road had refused a conference demanded by the men May 14.

Railroad officials declared the question of wages was before the federal railroad labor board in Chicago.

Receiving of freight was badly hampered at the start of the walkout, but later officials claimed to be handling it in fair shape in most places and said they expected to get back almost to normal before tonight. About 350 men in all were out, according to press dispatches, which said that in some towns a few other employees had walked out with the clerks.

ORIGIN OF BASEBALL

Commission in 1907 Decided That Game Fused on Sumner Devoted Game.

The much-debated question of where the real game of baseball originated and who contrived the first practical scheme for playing the game was settled for all time in 1907 by a commission consisting of A. G. Mills, of New York, a well-known player before and during the Civil War, and the third president of the National League; the late Arthur P. Goreman, one-time United States senator from Maryland; the Hon. Morgan G. Bulkeley, former governor of and later United States senator from Connecticut; and the first president of the National League; George Wright, of Boston, and Alfred J. Reach, of Philadelphia, two of the most famous ball players of the old days.

N. E. Young, of Washington, veteran player, first secretary and fourth president of the National League, and the late James E. Sullivan, of New York, the most famous executive who ever headed the Amateur Athletic Union.

These gentlemen, after examining all procurable data, decided, first, that baseball had its origin in the United States, and, second, that the first practical scheme for playing the game was devised by Abner Doubleday at Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1839.

Doubleday later was graduated from West Point, entered the regular army as captain of artillery and sighted the first fire gun on the Union side at Fort Sumter. Before the close of the war he was commissioned a major general.

Next in order came the first regularly organized baseball club, the famous old Knickerbockers of New York, about whose accomplishments there was such of the romantic, for they were "gentleman players," not professionals, and laid the cornerstone of presently organized baseball; the greatest sport in the world.

The uniforms of the Knickerbockers of 1842 have not been handed down in pictures, but stories of the games which appeared in the old print carry more than a hint of silk stockings, silver buckles and immaculate knee breeches, with hats of white and white-collared.

It is probable that they did not stage much of the game of baseball compared with the sport as played today, the game of the mallet and the mitt and the pad, the mask and the shin guard were unknown. It also can be stated without fear of contradiction that, being purely amateurs, with no thoughts of breaking contracts, holding out for portions of the purchase price or hopes of sharing in the world's riches, they played the game like sportsmen and resorted to nothing corresponding to the unclean spit-ball or the license or least foul.

It was in 1845 that the players of the Knickerbockers first appreciated the desirability of effecting a formal organization. History indicates that the new organization with Alexander J. Cartwright, one of the originators of the club, and that after discussing it with some of his fellows he formally proposed the organization scheme after a practice game played on the spring of that year.

His suggestion met with instant approval, and a committee consisting of Mr. Cartwright, Duncan F. Curry, E. B. Dugan, Mr. W. H. Tucker and W. R. Wheaton, at once set about obtaining the signatures of those desirous of belonging to such an organization.

Thus it came about that Mr. Cartwright was the father of organized baseball. Four years later he left New York for California, attracted by the gold hunt of that era, and after obtaining his share of the precious metal, sailed for Hawaii, where he was a leading citizen and business man until he died in 1892.

SENATOR THOMAS HEARD

IN PATCHED CLOTHES

Washington, May 19.—Frankly confiding to his colleagues that the "bait and patch" Senator Thomas, democrat, of Colorado, joining today in another senate broadside on profiteers, declared the people themselves, and not legislation, must break the sweeping wave of high prices.

The attack on profiteers was opened by Senator Kenyon, republican, of Iowa, who urged social ostracism and criminal punishment for the offenders. Corporations principally and retailers were held up as prime profiteers. Some of them were characterized by the Iowa senator as robbers and traitors.

There was a shift toward the railing and the crowd in the gallery leaning forward to hear Senator Thomas' appeal for a return of the old-time prices.

"I have on a suit of clothes four years old, somewhat patched, but still serviceable," he said, "as he stroked the sleeves of his coat. 'The shirt I have on was bought in 1916. I do not propose to buy any more clothes until prices go down to a reasonable level. If I subject myself to danger of arrest for not wearing good clothes on the streets of Washington, I am willing to live on corned beef hash and if I cannot beef up the high I will go without meat to bring down costs.'"

Senator Thomas said he was not defending profiteers, that he believed they should be rigorously punished, but that he did not believe the ex-
